General

The AC hotline phone received 53 calls this month of August 2015, registering a total of 30 complaints; 13 corruption and corruption assimilated offences and 14 non-corruption related complaints.

The AC volunteers made several investigative missions on the field following complaints received through the hotline phones and from the field.

Four new case files opened this month

A new case file involving bribery, corruption and undue demand was opened this month. The victim, in wanting to follow the right procedures to establish a certificate of non-conviction at the Ekounou court house in Yaounde was redirected to follow an illegal route that demands bribe. He ended up paying 1000 F CFA more for the service. AC volunteer descended to the court house to verify the complaint and it was confirmed. AC is in the process of regrouping victims, many of whom are yet to show interest to file a complaint against the official.

A new complaint file on bribery and corruption in the establishment of national identity cards was opened this month. The victim was demanded to pay 8000 F CFA in order to produce a national identity card at the Bafia 2nd police district. The actual sum for an ID cards is ... AC has been receiving complaints of this nature since the government instituted strict measures to check national ID cards at every police checkpoint as a security measure following the Boko Haram saga. Investigations are ongoing.

Another new complaint file was opened this month on bribery and corruption. The victim reported the administration of the Nkozoa government secondary school for demanding that she pays 10,000 FCFA as bribe before her son is admitted into the school. This complaint was received from several other parents this school going season with various amount of money asked ranging from 10,000 F CFA to 50,000 F CFA depending on the class of the student. Investigations are ongoing.

A new case file on bribery was opened this month. The victim was demanded 5000 F CFA at the gendarmerie research unit in Bafoussam before he can deposit a complaint. It was incongruous for AC to learn that because depositing a complaint is free of charges at that level. Investigations are ongoing.

Investigations were carried out in a fraud complaint involving false pretense and usurpation of office this month. AC was contacted by a US based supplier of lighting and renewable energy (solar panels 4u) to report an attempt on false pretense using the name of one of Cameroon's ex prime ministers. The ex government official was alerted of the case and a copy of the mail forwarded to the national agency for information technology and communication (ANTIC) that is in charge of fighting cyber criminality.

Investigations were also carried out in education corruption cases involving two higher institutions of learning. Students from the state university of Yaounde I Ngoa-ekelle complained that they were asked to pay either 1000 or 2000 F CFA to certify diplomas obtained from the institution. The same complaint was reported by students from the higher institute of management and economics at Mfou who also have to pay 2000 F CFA before they can certify their diplomas.

The distribution of brochures and pasting of posters remained the major activities carried out this month in order to recruit victims of corruption. Posters were pasted and brochures distributed in corruption hotspots around Yaounde. The administrative areas visited this month were the Yaounde central and Ekounou court houses, the Ministry of Finance and its environs, the Efoulan and Provence judicial police stations and the central post office. Markets like the mokolo, Ekounou, Mfoundi and the central markets were also touched.

Case follow-up this month continues with the old court case of motor bike riders against the head of the Nkolbisson municipal storeroom still at the level of hearings in the high court in Yaoundé. The case was adjourned again for an extended period and promised to be thrown out of court if the plaintiffs like the defendant continue to miss court sessions. The plaintiffs are discouraged and giving up on the case. AC contacted the lawyer this month for updates on the case and he promised to push for closure of the case if the plaintiff does not attend the next hearing.

Email/postal complaints

Three complaints were received through the email address. The first complaint involving fraud and usurpation of office, the second on undue demand and oppression by council market workers and the third on a scam and false pretense orchestrated by a Cameroonian that has rendered an elderly British man penniless.

Investigations

Investigations were necessary in a new case file involving bribery, corruption and undue demand opened this month. The victim, in wanting to follow the right procedures to establish a certificate of non-conviction at the Ekounou court house in Yaounde was redirected to follow an illegal route that demands bribe. He ended up paying 1000 F CFA more for the service. AC volunteer descended to the court house to verify the complaint and it was confirmed that every person wanting to establish a non conviction certificate was redirected outside by the court workers. Reason for this being they get a commission from the intermediaries outside who then bring the documents for signing. The normal procedure demands four days after a cash deposit of 2,500 F CFA and photocopies of ID cards and/or birth certificates but when you follow the intermediary route from outside where bribery is solicited, the process takes just twenty four hours. AC is in the process of regrouping victims, many of whom are yet to show interest to file a complaint against the court officials for bribery and corruption and distorting public order.

Investigations were also necessary in a new complaint file on bribery and undue demand opened this month. The victim was solicited 8,000 F CFA at the Bafia 2nd police district for the establishment of a national Identity card. The actual sum for an ID cards is 2800 F CFA. But in special cases where you have to provide a certificate of lost, an additional 1,000 F CFA is asked which means the victim had to pay 3,800 instead of 8,000 F CFA. AC has been receiving complaints of this nature since the government instituted strict measures to check national ID cards at every police checkpoint as a security measure following the Boko Haram saga. Investigations are ongoing.

Investigations were also carried out in a new complaint file opened this month on bribery and corruption. The victim reported the administration of the Nkozoa government secondary school for soliciting 10,000 F CFA as bribe before her son is admitted into the form two of the school. This complaint was received from several other parents this school going season. The money usually asked ranged from 10,000 to 50,000 F CFA depending on the class of the student. AC contacted the principal of the school in question who was astonished to hear of such allegations coming from his school. He asked for the name of the offender and promised to put the situation in check. AC is expecting updates from the principal after the investigations he promised to carry.

Investigations are ongoing in a new case file on bribery opened this month. The victim was solicited 5000 F CFA as bribe by the secretary at the gendarmerie research unit in Bafoussam before he can deposit a complaint. It was incongruous for AC to learn that because there are no charges involved in depositing a complaint at that level. AC intends to contact the commander himself who the secretary said is actually out of the country at the moment AC called.

Investigations were also carried out in a fraud complaint involving false pretense and usurpation of office this month. AC was contacted by a US based supplier of lighting and renewable energy (solar panels 4u) to report an attempt on false pretense using the name of one of Cameroon's ex prime ministers. The ex government official was alerted of the case and a copy of the mail forwarded to the national agency for information technology and communication (ANTIC) that is in charge of fighting cyber criminality in the country.

AC volunteers also investigated two education corruption cases involving two higher institutions of learning. Students from the state university of Yaounde I Ngoa-ekelle complained that they were asked to pay either 1000 or 2000 F CFA to certify diplomas obtained from the institution. The same complaint was reported by students from the higher institute of management and economics at Mfou who also have to pay 2000 F CFA before they can certify their diplomas. Ironically in both institutions is a public notice pasted in the secretariat notifying students that certification of their diplomas are free.

Legal follow-up

Case follow-up this month continues with the old court case of motor bike riders against the head of the Nkolbisson municipal storeroom still at the level of hearings in the high court in Yaoundé. The case was adjourned again for an extended period and promised to be thrown out of court if the plaintiffs like the defendant continue to miss court sessions. The plaintiffs are discouraged and giving up on the case. AC contacted the lawyer this month for updates on the case and he promised to push for closure of the case if the plaintiff does not attend the next hearing.
