(01) new case file was opened this month

A new case file on oppression and corruption was opened this month. The complainant reported the commander in chief of the gendarmerie brigade of Nkonsamba for acts of extortion and oppression. According to him, the commandant came to his family compound threatening to arrest him wrongfully without which he has to pay some money. He was only unable to effect the arrest on the orders of the State Counsel when he was contacted by the complainant. Investigations are ongoing.

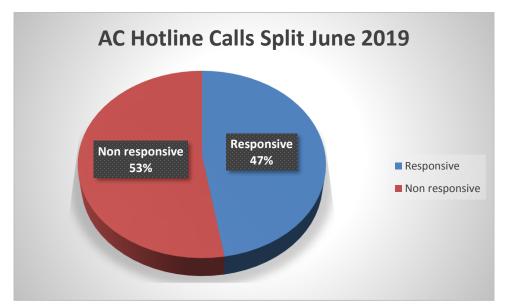

Case follow-up continued this month in the corruption case involving many counts with about three hundred victims deposited at the Yaoundé court of First Instance in the month of August 2017. The case file is currently being treated in the services of the state prosecutor of the Appeal Court while awaiting forwarding to the president of the same court for the designation of a competent trial court and judge for the case as procedure demands.

The AC coordinator took part in an exchange program, the International Visitor Leadership Program (IVLP) in the United States of America this month. The program was on the invitation of the U. S. Department of States with the goal being to exchange with U.S. counterparts on the theme, combating corruption: promoting transparency and accountability in government and business.

Investigations

Interventions were necessary in a new complaint file on oppression and corruption opened this month. The complainant, a trade-practitioner reported the commander in chief of the gendarmerie brigade of Nkonsamba for acts of extortion and oppression. According to him, he lost his nine months old baby after a brief illness in the hospital and when the doctor had declared the baby dead, he immediately took the corpse to be buried in his residence. The commander in chief of the gendarmerie brigade got news of the incident and followed him to his residence two days after the baby's burial to arrest him.

He explained that the commandant forcefully tried to arrest him based on the motive that he killed his baby mysteriously because he is a traditional doctor. He tried to explained to the commandant that the baby was sick and was declared dead in the hospital but the commandant asked that he be handcuffed and taken to the gendarmerie cell. The complainant called the State Counsel on their way to the gendarmerie who ordered the commandant to release him. He said the commandant released him but promised to return back.

During investigations, AC learned that the commandant and the complainant had had misunderstandings on land issues during previous occasions where the commandant had locked up the complainant's sister illegally in a case of double sale of land. AC has tried to get in contact with the commandant but he has refused to speak to AC.

Legal follow-up

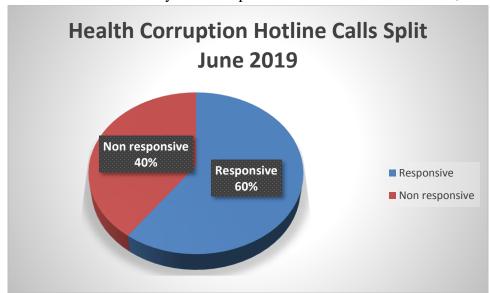

Case follow-up continued this month in the corruption case involving many counts with about three hundred victims deposited at the Yaoundé court of First Instance in the month of August 2017. The case was relaunched after a failed attempt to disappear the case file from the court system. The case, after having been examined by the state counsel's services for three months, was forwarded to the services of the attorney general for examination and forwarding to the president of the Appeal Court who will design a competent trial court for the case.

External relations

The AC coordinator returned to Cameroon after taking part in an exchange program, the International Visitor Leadership Program (IVLP) on the invitation of the U. S. Department of States in the United States of America this month. The goal was to exchange with U.S. counterparts on the theme, combating corruption: promoting transparency and accountability in government and business.
