

ANTI-CORRUPTION ORGANISATION*November 2015 Report*Highlights

- Two (02) new case files opened this month
- AC hotline phone received 29 calls
- HC hotline phone registered 11 calls this month

General

The AC hotline phone received 29 calls with 16 complaints, 10 corruption complaints and 6 non-corruption related offences.

The AC volunteers made informative visits to the field following complaints received through the AC hotline phone.

Two (02) new case files were opened this month

A new case file on bribery was opened this month. The victim reported a surveyor with the Mfoundi land and surveys subdivision for soliciting bribe from him before he could obtain the survey report even after he had paid the standard charges. Investigations are ongoing.

A new case file on corruption and oppression was opened this month. A police constable was reported for arbitrarily arresting and locking up a victim because he refused to pay him bribe. Investigations are currently under way.

Investigations were also carried out in a claim involving misappropriation of funds in two different state universities. Students from the 2013 promotion of the universities of Douala and Ngaoundere complained that the 50,000 FCFA awarded to meritorious students every year by the government has been misappropriated by the university administrators. Understanding the slow nature of release of State funds for such payments, AC is tactical in its approach of investigations which are ongoing.

Email/postal complaints

One non-corruption complaint was received through the email address this month on wrongful dismissal. The victim complained that he was given a technical leave by his employer and was never called to resume duty. The case has been in the Buea high court for two years with a claim of one hundred and fifteen million but with no head on.

Investigations

Investigations are ongoing on a new case on bribery opened this month. The victim reported a surveyor with the Mfoundi land and surveys subdivision for soliciting bribe from him before he could obtain the survey report even after he had paid the standard charges.

Investigations were carried out on a new case on corruption and oppression opened this month. The victim complained that he was arbitrarily arrested and locked up in a cell room because he refused to pay solicited bribe at the Batchenga gendarme squad. According to the victim, this particular gendarme squad is notorious for habitually locking up poor people with no money to pay bribes whenever arrested. Investigations are still ongoing

Investigations were also carried out on a claim involving misappropriation of funds in two different State universities. Students from the 2013 promotion of the universities of Douala and Ngaoundere complained that the 50,000 FCFA awarded to meritorious students every year by the government has been misappropriated by the university administrators. Understanding the slow nature of release of state funds for such payments, AC is tactical in its approach of investigations which are ongoing.

Management

AC is working with a volunteer from the United States who is contributing to AC's work by assisting with grant writing and helping redesign victim recruitment processes to emphasize community support networks for victims, thus increasing the likelihood that victims can see a court case through to the end.
